DETAILED ACTION

Specification

The specification is objected to as on page 6 line 8 the applicant uses the word constancy. The spelling of the word is incorrect and it is unclear whether the word is supposed to be constant, consistency, or neither. Correction is needed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. The applicants disclose of a computer means fails to invoke 112(6th) paragraph since a computer means just implies a computer. Further the applicants disclose of the limitations "suitable means" and "make it possible to arrange," has no clear meaning as to what the applicant is claiming. Could the "suitable means" be a worker, a computer, a weight, or something else? Clarification must be given.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

Art Unit: 3765

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by anticipated by Krumm (US 6,962,171).

The applied reference has a common assignee with the instant application. Based upon the earlier effective U.S. filing date of the reference, it constitutes prior art under 35 U.S.C. 102(e). This rejection under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) might be overcome either by a showing under 37 CFR 1.132 that any invention disclosed but not claimed in the reference was derived from the inventor of this application and is thus not the invention "by another," or by an appropriate showing under 37 CFR 1.131.

As to claims 1, Krumm discloses a gear means, which permits the flywheel having a inertia moment to become effective on the drive shaft of the shed forming machine. (Col. 15-16 lines 64-2). Further, Krumm teaches that the flywheel comprises a means for varying the size of the mass inertia moment. Krumm discloses that the means is a signal-transmitting manner with a control unit (Col. 17 lines 45-46).

As to claim 2, it would inherent that the inertia being in a suitable form for the device of Krumm to work.

As to claim 5, as stated above, a flywheel is used as the adjustable moment of inertia device.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

Art Unit: 3765

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 3 and 4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Krumm (US 6,962,171). Krumm discloses the device substantially above. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to have the inertial mass change automatically as it would provide better control of the loom

As to claim 4, Krumm discloses the device substantially above. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to manually change the flywheel when the inertial mass needed to be changed.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 6 and 7 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Froment (US 5,642,757), Tamura (US 6,532,996), and Wagner (US 6,307,340 teach the state of the art.
